About SKS

Founded in 2006 and based in Leavenworth, Kansas, SKS has experience managing efforts as both a prime and subcontractor teammate. We have a well-established program management staff to ensure deliverables are on time and meet quality standards. Our personnel are experts in developing expertise; helping organizations learn; and tackling complex challenges related to the “human side” of how you collaborate, learn on the job, and innovate. Our proven learning approaches produce immediate benefits by applying experiential learning and knowledge-based strategies to improve individual, team, and organizational performance. Our work is highly respected, and our experts have more than 100 publications and conference presentations documenting our innovative work across government and industry.

SKS is a small business that brings big experience and lessons learned from diverse industry sectors.

SKS is a consulting firm focused on expertise development, organizational learning, and knowledge management practices and application.

We provide customers with world-class expertise in five critical areas to help you innovate, learn, decide, and act with speed and effectiveness. These areas include:

- Assessment: We are a leader in designing and executing knowledge assessments that focus on understanding how leadership, people, processes, and technology interact within an organization's specific culture and structure. We are also known for our simple and elegant training assessment design that measures improvements in human performance and cognition.
- Knowledge Management: We focus on the human side of knowledge management, looking at the whole Knowledge Environment. We don't make technology. We help you develop people and processes that adapt to your organization's culture and structure to make technology an asset, not a liability.
- Expertise Development: We take an innovative approach to accelerating the expertise development cycle through our ground-breaking knowledge transfer strategies, advanced blended learning methods, and team launch techniques.
- Cognitive Task Analysis: We develop strategies for extracting tacit knowledge and transferring that expertise to improve learning, performance, and organizational design and development. This approach helps prevent organizational knowledge loss as people retire or leave an organization.
- Actionable Research and Development: Not only is all of our work published, we also teach innovative workshops and master classes in each area, including a knowledge management certification program.

Proven Past Performance with Experience You Can Rely On

SKS provides consulting, onsite program support, and education & training. Some of our past projects include the following:

- Designed innovative knowledge capture and transfer strategies for Fortune 500 companies that helped accelerate the expertise development cycle.
- Conducted knowledge assessments for over 30 organizations to improve collaboration and knowledge flow.
- Designed, developed, managed, and facilitated Communities of Practice for corporate, government, DoD, and academic customers to improve knowledge sharing.
- Supported Knowledge Management (KM) programs for the U.S. Army, Marine Corps, and Air Force. SKS has synchronized KM activities, provided support for leader development and KM education, as well as provided onsite KM advisors to support KM offices at 15 locations throughout the U.S. Army.
- Conducted over 100 Cognitive Task Analysis interviews across more than 75 countries to identify and capture lessons learned and improve organizational processes, collaboration, and performance at the United Nations Development Programme.
- Helped the World Bank identify measures of effectiveness for their KM program.
- Redesigned SharePoint training in organizations to improve adaption and process effectiveness.
- Assessed learning technologies, developed blended learning environments, and helped integrate Web 2.0 technologies into the classroom. SKS has a strong background with the Army Learning Model 2015.

In addition to our strong past performance, SKS has a large network of consultants and practitioners we can call on quickly to expand our expertise and depth.
